Dad Saved from Incarceration and Nearly $200,000 in Falsely Claimed Child Support

CHICAGO, March 29, -- The Law Offices of Jeffery M. Leving cleared the name of a so-called "dead beat" dad and saved him from incarceration and financial ruin by defending him against trumped up child support claims by his ex-wife. Leving Attorneys, Ashley Isaacson and Catherine Delgadillo saved this father nearly $200,000 in falsely claimed child support. The father sought the firm's help after his ex-wife filed a petition seeking to jail him that falsely claimed he never paid any child support for their two daughters.

Not only was the petition filed 7 years after the child support payment period ended, it requested an outlandish Judgment. Such a claim, had it been entered, would have been a devastating loss. Thanks to Leving firm Attorneys Isaacson and Delgadillo's efforts the father left court as a free man. The firm disproved his ex-wife's fraudulent "dead beat" claims and he is now free to continue to enjoy his loving and supportive relationship with his daughters.

The Law Offices of Jeffery M. Leving, Ltd. is internationally known for rescuing children from around the world and reuniting fathers and children. The firm routinely does what others consider to be impossible. The firm's founder, Jeffery M. Leving, has been recognized by government leaders (including the last three U.S. Presidents and the Illinois House of Representatives), private industry, his peers, and non-profit agencies. His latest book, How to Be a Good Divorced Dad, received praise from President Barack Obama and was endorsed by the late Cardinal Francis George of the Archdiocese of Chicago.
